R1b1 Morrison DNA study group members, ALL with the McLemore Surname, and all appear to be matches. Some members have only had a 12 marker study done; but due to fact they bear the McLemore surname, are exact 12 marker matches AND the fact that combination of 14/14 at markers 385a and 385b is very unusual in the R1b1 Haplogroup, it is currently being assumed that the group of men below share a common paternal ancestor in a genealogically significant time frame. The lineage information in italics is provided by each participant. Each participant feels confident in their own paper trail and research back to their earliest proven ancestor. Predicted to be R1b1b2

Atlantic Modale Haplotype	13	24	14	11	11	14	12	12	12	12	13	13	29	18	9	10	11	11	25	15	18	30	15	16	16	17
Note DYS 385 a-b is 14/14 versus the expected 11/14, this has been checked by a Kitter test to ensure that there are indeed 2 separate DYS 385 Markers, and there are. This is quite unusual.

This is a descendant of Hiram McLemore of Lee County, Virginia, who died on 22 April 1887 in Breathitt County, Kentucky. Thought to be a son of John McLemore and Ruth Steelman, and grandson of Ephraim McLemore. Predicted to be in the R1b1b2 Haplogroup, however he is four steps (at 12 markers) removed from the above R1b1b2 McLemore's, and has NO McLemore matches per the Family Tree DNA database.

This is a descendant of James McLemore IV of North Carolina, whose family moved to Montgomery County, Alabama. He does NOT match any of the families above or below, and is instead predicted as R1a1 Predicted to be in the R1a1 Haplogroup. No matches in the Family Tree DNA database to any other McLemore's, however, he is an exact 25 marker match to a RAMBO thought to be from Goteborg, Sweden.
